

The PHOTO JOURNAL

EXTRA

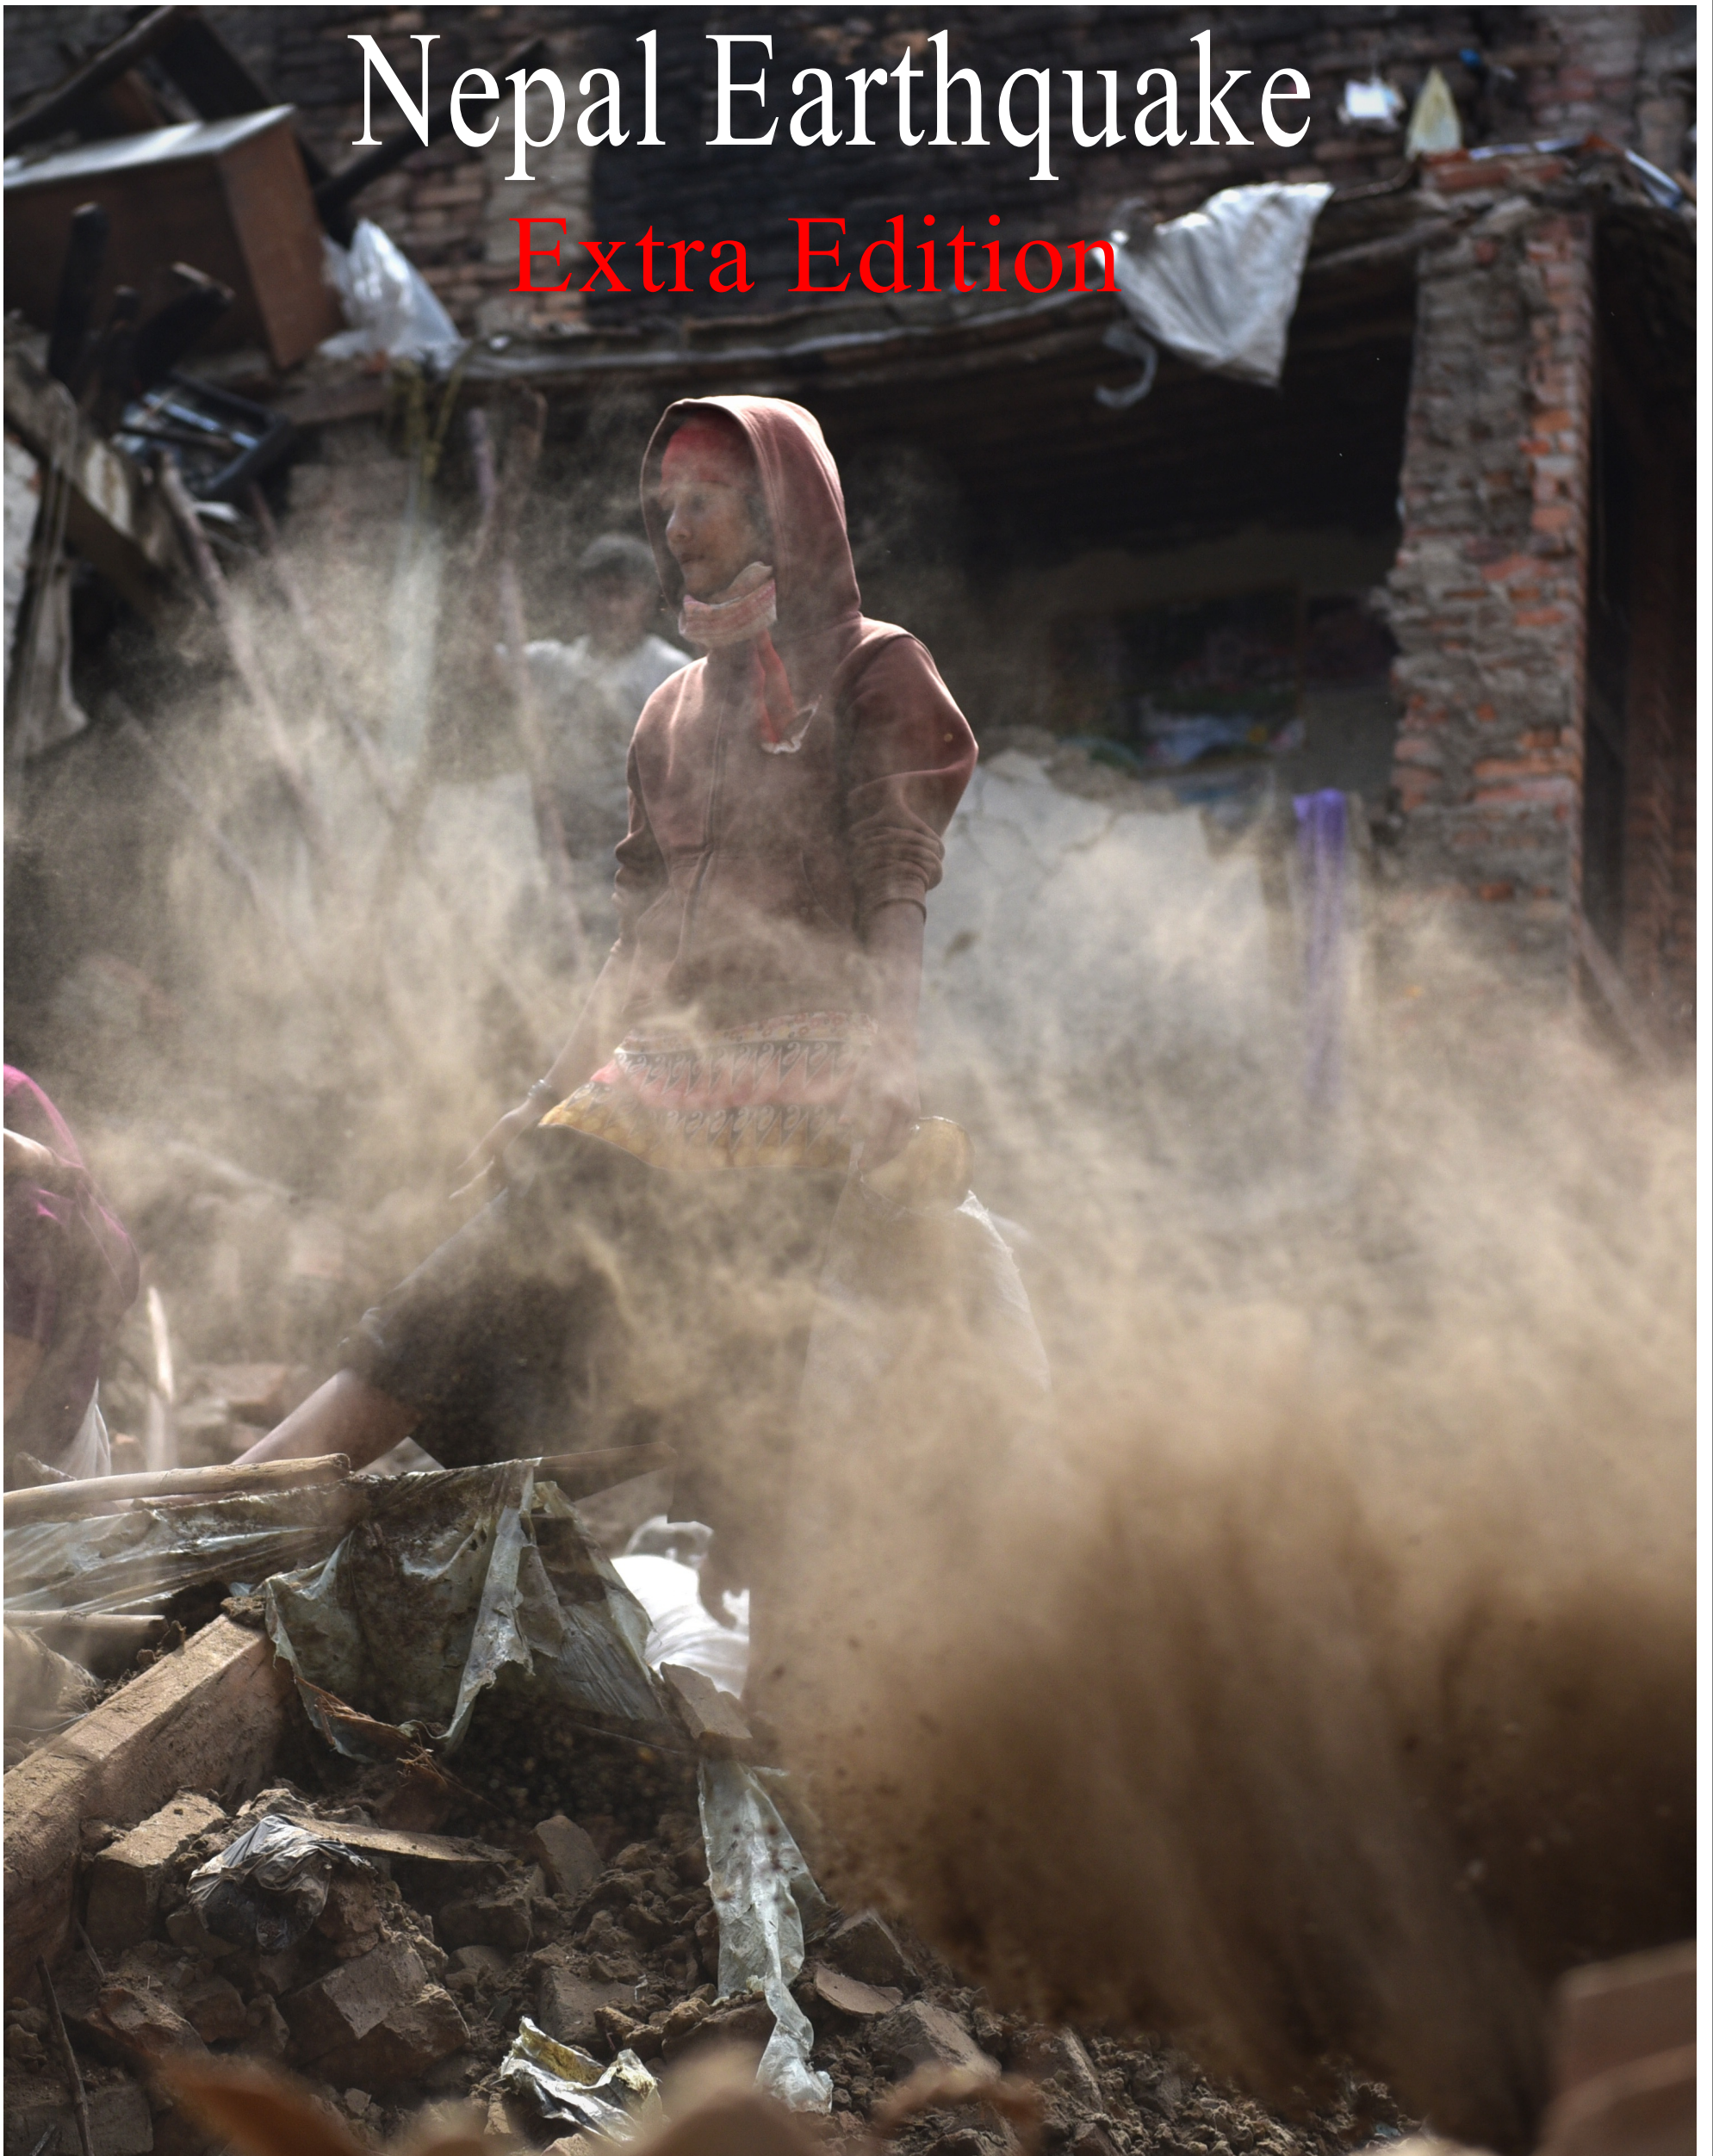

May 10, 2015
FREE

<http://www.thephotjournal.org>

Photo news stories and documentaries since 2015

©2015 Yuki Iwanami

Nepal Earthquake Extra Edition

Residents remove debris in the destroyed city. May 2nd, Sankhu

PHOTO&TEXT
BY YUKI IWANAMI

Translation by Taro Konishi

On April 25th, central Nepal was struck by an earthquake measuring M7.8. As of May 8th, in Nepal and the surrounding countries, the death toll has exceeded 8,000 and approximately 560,000 homes have been destroyed or damaged. Rows of old houses built from bricks and wood have crumbled, leaving towns and villages in ruins. Residents have put up tents in the empty spaces, while many of the victims are carried to the morgue to be cremated. Whole villages have disappeared in the mountainous areas where damage has been severe. Lacking roads fit for vehicles, many rural areas have yet to receive any emergency food or supplies, let alone grasp the extent of damage.

Women cry after finding their mother from under the rubble of their collapsed house. April 29th, Bhaktapur

A body is retrieved from the ruins of a house. April 29th, Bhaktapur

Residents light fires and spend the night in front of a tent set up in a park. April 30th, Kathmandu

Residents frustrated by the lack of supplies take to the streets. May 1st, Kathmandu

A ceremony is held at a crematorium. April 29th, Bhaktapur

Villagers huddle under a makeshift shack. May 7th, Sindhupalchowk District

A young man is rescued from the rubble 6 days after the earthquake. April 30th, Kathmandu

Whole settlements have been destroyed. May 6th, Sindhupalchowk District

Karuna was injured during the quake. May 7th, Sindhupalchowk District

The PHOTO JOURNAL

EXTRA